Essex Stragglers support the Woodland Trust and its objectives

Editorial - Andrew Cordle

Thank you to everybody who has contributed to this edition. It would be nice to see some new names in the Contents list next time. Why don't you write and describe an orienteering experience you have enjoyed, or even one you haven't? It would be great to see the sport through some new eyes.

With the days getting just a little bit longer and the recent mild spell, I've started to look forward to the summer. If you haven't tried combining your holiday with orienteering before, you could try spending the first week in August in Wales (<http://www.croesomultiday.org.uk>) or the August Bank Holiday weekend in the Scarborough area (<http://www.whiteroseweekend.org.uk>). For something a bit more exotic, you could try the World Masters Championship in Portugal (<http://www.wmoc2008.fpo.pt>) or for something closer to home, the Stragglers' summer informal events (<http://stragglers.info/event>).

Editorial - Geraldine Russell

SOS have done it again! We are through to the final of the CompassSport Trophy on 19th October. Congratulations to all members who took part in the CompassSport Trophy heat. Even if your score did not count your presence will have boosted the score of your club mates in the same class thus giving SOS just enough points to go through to the final. With the monthly training sessions the coaching team are putting on there should be no reason why we cannot win the Trophy in the autumn.

Chairman's Chat - Martin Sellens

Happy not-very-new-year! The last newsletter was largely about the AGM, club kit storage and the CompassSport Trophy. What goes around comes around. Though it's a bit early to be talking about the next AGM, (and don't worry, I won't) we are still looking for a place to store club kit and the CompassSport Trophy for 2008 is already underway. On the kit issue, there was a mini-working party at the Robertson's Garage a few weeks ago and Hilary exercised her chucking out muscles, so there is now a (bit) smaller volume of hardware to occupy that empty space you have lurking in the dark recesses of your outhouses. So if you are looking to increase your involvement in the club, live somewhere relatively accessible, and have always had a secret ambition to be a quartermaster, here's your big chance. If you wish to view the SOS cache before committing, contact Julia Robertson (julia@robertson-sos.freeseve.co.uk), who would love to hear from you.

Stragglers still rule as far as the regional round of the CompassSport Trophy is concerned; but only just. CHIG continue to be a threat to our dominance in the small clubs competition, and despite turning out in overwhelming force, we only just pipped them (1273 to 1262) to reach the final. Congratulations and thanks to all who took part in this tremendous club effort and particular thanks to stand-in captain Chris Sellens who took on Jenny Collyer's role of chief whip to get you all to Brandon. Geraldine did a great job of feeding the troops, and hopefully "Gerry's Soup Kitchen" will be a regular meeting point for the club at key events in the future. If you haven't yet experienced the miraculous warming effect of her nutritious broth and the equally warming effect of communing with club mates old and new, then don't miss out again! But where has our club sail banner gone? Information as to its whereabouts would be welcome. Incidentally, it was great to see founding member Derek Keeble sprinting off from the start. Unfortunately he (and most of the rest of you) had left by the time I wheezed into the finish.

It's a busy few weeks ahead. By the time this newsletter hits the press the first in a new series of Saturday coaching events will have happened at Hylands Park. The development and coaching team is doing a fantastic job and I hope you will all try to take advantage of these opportunities to hone your skills. What ever your level of experience you can always improve. Although I subscribe heartily to the view that it isn't a bad thing to spend 2 h on the Green in order to get maximal value for money and that it's great to explore bits of the forest untrammelled by the planner and other competitors, there's also satisfaction to be gained from chipping a few seconds per kilometre off your rate of progress and edging ahead of your age-group rival. Don't be shy. Give coaching a try. Steve Cartwright and his team would be delighted to see you at Baddow Ridge on March 1st if you didn't make it to Hylands. Chalkney Woods will also be a recent memory by the time you read this (anybody there?), but Hockley is on the near horizon (16th March), so please consider volunteering your services to the organiser, Dave Birkett david.birkett@blueyonder.co.uk . Also, don't forget to enter the East Anglian Championships event at Kings Forest, just a stone's throw away in Suffolk, on 17th February. All these events are, of course, listed in the CompassSport magazine and on the British Orienteering web site at <http://www.britishorienteering.org.uk/event/findevent.php> or linked through our own web site at <http://stragglers.info/index.htm>.

Finally, I hope to see you all at forthcoming events. If we haven't met before, come and introduce yourself. But not in the forest. I'll probably be lost too.

Captain's Corner - Jenny Collyer

Many thanks to everyone who ran at Brandon in our Compass Sport Trophy Round. We won by 11 points just beating CHIG so it was a very close result – Well Done. My thanks also to Chris who did all the organising while I was enjoying the Swedish snow.

The final is on 19th October at Sutton Park, near Birmingham, so write this date in your diaries now.

The JK Relays are on Monday 24th March at Eridge Park, Tonbridge Wells, Kent. Being so close to home I am expecting a large Stragglers contingent! The entry fee is Adults £11, Junior £7 if I get the entries in by the earlier date of 21st February (the final date for entries is 2 weeks after that at a charge of £14/£9). I am intending to enter our teams by the earlier date so if you want to run in a relay team (and haven't already told me) could you let me (jcollyer48@btinternet.com) know by 17th February at the absolute latest, please. The British Relay Championships are on Sunday 20th April at Culbin, Moray, Scotland. Entry fees are £12/£6 by 24th March (JK Relay) at the latest if you want to run in a relay team.

Could you please send me your entry fees (cheques payable to SOS) at 48 Meadow View Road, Sudbury, Suffolk CO10 7NY.

Keep up the training!

Stragglers' League - Andrew Cordle

We've had 10 qualifying events since the League started in September - six of them since the last newsletter just over two months ago. A good selection of stragglers have now completed at least six events, so they will need to improve on their existing scores to increase their total points tally. They are -

Name	Runs	Sum of Best 6	Name	Runs	Sum of Best 6
Geraldine Russell	7	536	John Russell	6	433
Hannah Newton	8	530	Colin West	6	426
Bert Park	8	521	Claire Harrison	8	411
James Park	8	483	Perry Mole	6	404
John Collyer	6	481	Sarah Park	8	388
Duncan Harrison	7	479	David Skinner	9	355
Jack Isbester	8	472	Michael Park	8	340
Chris Childs	6	463	Alex Ware	7	302
Eddie Banks	7	458

Congratulations, Geraldine on retaining the top spot. However, Hannah and Bert are just one good run away from taking it from you. Another threat comes from Jenny Collyer, already on 489 points after five events. Richard Bonnett and Hilary and Martin Sellens will be looking for a top-10 spot once they have completed 6 events.

By the time of the next newsletter, I expect that most of the keener Stragglers will have completed their 6 events, and positions will have stabilised to the point that you will be able to calculate how many points you will need from your next event to overtake one or two people above you in the table (provided they have a disappointing run, of course). Qualifying events before the next newsletter are (depending on when you read this and when you read the next newsletter) most of -

I haven't had much feedback on the League so far, which suggests either satisfaction or apathy. Let me have your suggestions, criticisms and complaints at events or to andrew@cordle.net. Attempts to have events added to the competition after you have looked at the results (and decided that you did particularly well) will be resisted!

Club coaching

New for 2008!

The SOS coaching team invite you to Saturday morning training sessions. These will be held on the first Saturday of each month at a different venue each time to allow for practice of a greater variety of techniques to help you with your orienteering.

All ages and abilities are welcome from 10am – 12.30. Experienced coaches will be on hand to guide you through the exercises and the sessions will end with a fun activity. There is NO CHARGE for the coaching but there may be a parking charge at some venues. Bring normal orienteering kit plus extra layers if bad weather, and a drink/snack.

Please fill in a medical form (available to download from the British Orienteering site at http://www.britishorienteering.org.uk/downloads/documents/cdoc_Parentalconsentform.pdf or contact the session organiser) and bring it with you. Only fill in top half if you are over 18.

It is helpful to let the lead coach know you are coming so we know how many to expect. Details are on the club website <http://www.stragglers.info>.

The first two dates are

Feb 2nd - Hylands Park

Mar 1st - Baddow

Please check the website before setting out for final details.

These Sessions are a great way to improve your technique whilst getting to know some of your fellow club members – something we don't always get a chance to do at normal events. So don't be shy come along and have some fun!

Explorer Challenge - Julie Laver

The latest Juniors to complete their Explorer Challenges are

Samuel Bolam and Stephanie Ware

Well done to you both.

The explorer challenge is suitable for any junior to take part however competent they are. For more information and a log book please call at the enquiries tent at most SOS events.

Colour-coded awards - Lyn West

Congratulations to the following members who have achieved colour-coded badges -

White	Tom Burgess (M10)
	Nicholas Harrison (M12)
Yellow	Nicholas Harrison (M12)
Orange	Rhiannon Ware (W12)
Light green	Hannah Newton (W16)
Green	Ellen Sanderson (W18)
Blue	James Park (M18)

You will receive your badges in the near future. Colour-coded badges are awarded when 3 par times have been achieved at that colour. Juniors cannot be shadowed. Pairs can qualify on white, yellow and orange courses. If you think that I have missed you out, please let me have the details of events and dates when the par times were achieved and I will be happy to forward them to you. Adults can claim them too! Email orienteering@grovehillhouse.wanadoo.co.uk.

Essex Chronicle Article

Following Thomas Birkett's performance at the British Schools Championships and then qualifying for his Championship Badge, the Chelmsford papers published an article entitled "Orienteer Thomas Strikes Gold". You can read the article at this rather long URL -

<http://www.thisistotalessex.co.uk/displayNode.jsp?nodeId=170509&command=displayContent&sourceNode=230988&contentPK=19310300&folderPk=107992&pNodeId=231031>.

Well done Thomas, both for attaining your Championship Badge and for getting such good publicity for orienteering and Essex Stragglers!

Orienteering vs Mountain Biking - Dave Skinner

The article below, extracted from the Guardian Weekend magazine published on 6 October 2007, may be of interest to readers. As one club SOS stalwart was heard to comment: "Thank goodness for orienteering. I cannot imagine what my memory would be like without it!"

Editors' note: Copyright law prevents us from reproducing the article in full - the fee requested for reproduction exceeded the editorial, printing and distribution budget for this entire Newsletter! However, you can read it at <http://www.guardian.co.uk/weekend/story/0,,2183248,00.html>.

Sam Murphy's article compared orienteering with mountain biking on five criteria - burning calories (orienteering slightly ahead), adrenaline fix (mountain biking by a mile), lower body (mountain biking slightly ahead), safety (orienteering better) and (the seed of Dave's stalwart's comment) mental agility. Apparently, aging orienteers (know any of those?) have faster reaction speeds and better attention skills than non-athletes. Does this make Mountain Bike Orienteering the ideal sport?

London Marathon - Geoff Pye

Hello fellow Stragglers

As some of you know I am running the London Marathon again this year. I must be mad as I know from three years ago what the pain is like for the last 6 miles!!! Last time I did not 'hit the wall' but rather from about 20 miles there was a slow progressive build up of pain in the thighs, calves and shoulders. The only two things that kept me going were the fear of failure and the knowledge that I had £1000 of sponsorship for the Alzheimer's Society riding on my finishing.

I am again raising money for the Alzheimer's Society, the leading UK care and research charity for people with Alzheimer's disease and other dementias, their families and carers. I would be very grateful if you feel able to sponsor me so that I can raise loads of money for this very worthy cause. The Alzheimer's Society is a charity very dear to my heart for all the support that they gave to my family a few years ago when my Mother suffered from this cruel disease.

Please log into my webpage <http://www.justgiving.com/geoffpye> and dig deep. If you have not used 'Justgiving' before it takes only a couple of minutes to register and is a simple secure way to sponsor.

Thanks for your support

London Marathon - Eleanor and Jo West

APRIL 13th 2008: WEST SISTERS ARE RUNNING THE LONDON MARATHON!!

We are running in support of Action for M.E which is the UK's leading charity dedicated to improving the lives of people with M.E. They provide information and support to people affected by M.E. and Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (also diagnosed as Post-Viral Fatigue Syndrome), as well as campaigning for more research, better treatments and services.

Many of you will remember Eleanor's battle with PVFS. Through it we have both experienced at close quarters the effect that this spectrum of diseases can have and are proud to be supporting a charity which can provide help to those suffering from what can be an extremely devastating and often misunderstood condition.

We are currently training hard and on top of all the running (mixed in with some skiing for Eleanor, under strict instructions from Jo that she doesn't break anything!) we have to raise £1200 each on behalf of our chosen charity. We would be extremely grateful for anything that you can give towards helping us meet our targets. It would help if you could split your support between us equally as unfortunately we are having to fundraise separately due to Eleanor receiving matched-funding from her employer.

Emit Cards - Jack Isbester and Dave Skinner

Answers to the questions you've all been asking

EMIT cards are an alternative to SI 'dibbers' and are used in some British regions, the nearest to us in East Anglia being South Central (i.e. Thames Valley to Southampton).

The following is an email exchange between one of the Stragglers' finest analytical brains and his dozy companion. SOS colleagues are invited to join in.

I had a look at the price of EMIT Cards (see <http://www.emituk.com/>) current version (with the display) is £45 while the older version (which is probably what we used today) is £30. I assume one would also need to purchase back-up labels - these seem to only be available in rolls of 550 at a cost of £26.50 - though perhaps these are issued at events free of charge?

By comparison the current price of an SI card of the type we use is £22.40 though there are other versions available (no significant advantage as far as I can see if used for Orienteering) at £38.50 (or £30.50 if you trade in your old version).

Assuming 3 EMIT events per year it would seem to be more cost-effective to hire EMIT cards.

Dave,

I accept the facts but am not sure about the assumptions.

Is it three events a year or five? It seems like more than 3 to me. An inspection of the EMIT website does, admittedly show a fairly limited spread of events but includes SARUM where I think I have run twice in the last year, BADO which is Claire's local club, SOC (the November Classic), TVOC (The Concorde Chase, Wendover Woods and others), BAOC (Roman Valley & CST).

The 2008 JK will use SI. The 2008 British Champs (Individual & Relay in Scotland) will use EMIT.

Colin and Lyn West have EMIT brikkes and one or two other SOS members may have Collyers? Sellenses? so sharing a roll of cards should be possible if they are not issued at events and if you cannot make your own.

And what price can you put on the kudos? He's a man with his own EMIT card!
"That'll do nicely!"

Finally SportIdent is based in Sweden, EMIT in Norway which means that EMIT will be mainly used in Norway. I hope to take a Norwegian holiday to promote my book, revisit friends and do a little orienteering whenever the book is finished - yet another reason. The sooner I buy the better if I'm to recover my money!

I think I've persuaded myself. All I have to decide is whether to go for the deluxe model or the economy one.

All the best,

Jack

At my peril I would comment further as follows:

1. I have only used an EMIT card 4 times (I think) over a two year period, but you have probably run more EMIT-driven events
2. The kudos angle doesn't carry much weight!
3. The life of the brikke is also a consideration - my research suggests that life expectancy is 10-12 years, assuming normal usage - normal usage is defined as once a week! - so no issue there.
4. If I were to purchase an EMIT card I would go for the most up to date version - the display is useful, particularly if one has problems remembering which control one is aiming for - which in my limited experience can happen very occasionally. Pretty marginal reason really.
5. The cost of hire of an EMIT card for a four day event in Norway is typically NOK 50, about £4.50, so apparently not a lot different to the UK.
6. EMIT cards are clumsy when compared to SI - perhaps we should not be encouraging their usage!
7. Potentially another item to forget when setting off early on a Sunday morning.
8. Still not convinced, but I now give up.....!

Best wishes, Dave

Taro Koyama - Jack Isbester

Taro Koyama, a Japanese orienteering friend of mine since I orienteered in Japan almost thirty years ago, will be coming with his wife Fujiko to this year's JK. He's going to be staying in a Guildford Travelodge and then a B&B near Ashdown Forest for the JK itself but will be spending two weeks in total in the UK, to include time in the Cotswolds and London, and he is hoping to visit Derek Keeble whom he first met at a Swiss 5 Day event, if I remember correctly.

I report this partly because Taro is known to several of my clubmates since he stayed with a Stragglers' party at a Scottish 6 Day event some years and partly because, regrettably, I will be missing this year's JK and am going to be in France and Spain throughout his visit.

Taro, seen here with Fujiko in St Petersburg if I'm not mistaken, is the Japanese representative for Trail Orienteering and is very well informed on that subject.

The Gym Experience - Steve Cartwright

Traditionally as I understand it the winter when its dark and cold is particularly the time that athletes hit the gym to build up some strength for the coming season. Obviously for Orienteers and Road Runners with regular events over the winter period things are a little more complicated yet its still something we can benefit from.

Anyway, I decided to hit the gym once a week for the winter. It wasn't to be a totally new experience as years ago as a teenager I was actually an assistant weight training coach at a Sports Centre, and was involved in football training and various other sports there too. In those days though it was free weights where posture in the training was considered particularly important along with 3 sets of 10 reps around a circuit of weight exercises. We did stick in some calf raises, sit ups and pull ups though for the sake of completeness. The funny thing is I don't remember feeling totally knackered afterwards and look back to times spent in the bar drinking orange juice and eating peanuts while chatting away, not forgetting a pull to molasses etc. at home.

What about now? My hour's induction was a general introduction to the various machines that could help me in my fitness - very different to the old days or the bits I've at home although there were a few dumb-bells around. I was recommended cycling to warm up, various machine strength exercises for different parts of the body, the treadmill, and the cross country skiing and rowing machines. All exciting stuff. To be honest I loved it even if the instructor did get worried because my heart was running away at 135 bpm on the treadmill ! I tried to keep the training general, with more of an endurance emphasis, with the harder work for my legs yet was glad I could do well under 4 min/km for a few minutes on the treadmill - even if it was a bit at my limit. Strange the way I felt the need of more oxygen - gulp, gulp - yet I could still speak normally afterwards which was encouraging. The main worries were the bike shaking at 90rpm, some treadmills not being big or strong enough for my weight (although specified to 4 min miles), and the fact that it was difficult to alter the speed on them while running quickly without looking like I was in serious difficulty.

After Christmas it was a new facility with new management - Another induction and the use of electronic keys to set the machines for us individually (not sure they do) and to store/analyse data from our workouts. At the moment all this button pressing is something I could do without I think and I also seem to move to the next machine forgetting to take the key with me. One machine doesn't fit me although most seem stronger and there's more of them along with plenty of free weights.

What's happened? I've put on weight and quite a bit of it. I'm told muscle is heavier than fat so if I have been building up I should have I suppose, but then there's my Christmas fat too. Fitness – I do seem to be getting stronger – not sure about quicker.

Nice that its not smelly and I can have the odd little chat.
